About TTSP HWP

Founded in 1991 in Frankfurt am Main as a joint venture between two architectural businesses, TTSP HWP entered the data centre space in 2007 and expanded its offerings to provide all technical advisory services aimed at planning data centre development projects from a 360° perspective. Given that the design phase is considered crucial in determining a facility’s future environmental impact, the company plays a key role in supporting major global clients in developing data centres that not only incorporate the latest technologies but also adhere to best-in-class sustainability standards, thus helping industry players comply with EU regulation and improve their Scope 1, 2 and 3 GHG emissions.
